Anti-OTB Petition Drive Is Underway

KINGSTON — In an effort to scuttle off-track betting in Ulster County, Kingston radio executive Harry M. Thayer plans to cover the county with 1,500 petitions demanding an advisory referendum on the issue.

Although the petition drive has been sanctioned by We've Had It Taxpayers Association (WHITA), WHITA has endorsed off-track betting—a move that led to Thayer's resignation from the WHITA board and some bad feelings between Thayer and WHITA officers.

Thayer hopes to get 5,760 signatures, the number needed to put the question on the November ballot. WHITA, although in favor of betting parlors, believes "that this is a moral issue and that the electorate should have the right to vote on it," said WHITA Secretary Mary McMickle.

The petition drive follows last Thursday's vote of the Ulster County Legislature to authorize off-track betting (OTB) in the county under the auspices of Catskill Region OTB Corp., which already runs betting parlors in Orange, Rockland, and Chemung counties.

Thayer says he intends to hit the airwaves at least three days a week to get his message across: people will be hurt financially and families will be ruined by off-track betting.

Recalling his own betting experiences as a young man, when he lost $40,000 and some AT&T stock, Thayer says he will "work hard day after day on radio trying to convince people with stories about betting."

The WGHQ president sees off-track betting as particularly "suicidal for women," because "women can't pick horses" but get easily hooked on betting. He asserts many women go into prostitution to get betting money and, as a consequence, destroy themselves.

The 21-person WHITA Boardboard, after some debate endorsed both OTB and an advisory referendum two weeks ago. "Some people said they weren't quite sure, but they were willing to go along with it. The board speaks for an awful lot of people, and we thought we couldn't decide for them," Mrs. McMickle said, explaining WHITA's backing of the petition drive.

But Thayer's resignation and subsequent comments about WHITA board members have engendered some hostility. "On one of his editorials, he said I backstabbed and insulted him at the board meeting, which is completely untrue," Mrs. McMickle explains.

"In an editorial reply, I demanded an apology from him, which I haven't got yet. Speaking for myself, I wouldn't vote to let Thayer back on the WHITA board," she added.

Thayer, depending mainly on 160 churches in the county to aid him in his petition drive, is also asking for volunteers to circulate the petitions, which must be completed and turned in 45 days before the election.

He has conferred with County Attorney Abram Molyneux on the drawing of the petitions and has secured a county list of registered voters to establish in what voting district petition signers live. That information is required to validate signatures.

Opposition to off-track betting has already come from the Kingston Area Council of Churches, the Evangelical Ministerial Fellowship of Greater Kingston Area, and other religious organizations.

But some members of the clergy supported OTB at a recent public hearing, claiming it was no worse than investing in the stock market.

Off-track betting was first proposed for Ulster County in 1971 but made little headway until higher expenditures forced legislators to reconsider the idea as a way to keep property taxes down. Welfare costs have placed new burdens on the county budget, and legislators see OTB as a means of bringing in at least $400,000 a year.

Donald Groth, executive director of Catskill OTB, indicated that the first betting parlor in Ulster would be established in Kingston with future branches in Ellenville and New Paltz.

If Thayer fails to secure enough signatures, which must equal 10 per cent of voters in the last gubernatorial election, the first parlors could be set up by summer's end. It is estimated that OTB would employ about 30 persons.

Kingston Area Market Basket Dropped More Than $2

KINGSTON — The cost of feeding a family of four in Kingston dropped 4.1 per cent last week to $62.91, according to figures released today by the Ulster County Consumer Information Service of the District Attorney's Office.

The comparable figure for the 38-item market basket of foods purchased by a typical moderate-income family for the week ending June 4 was $65.59. Major declines were recorded in fresh fruits and vegetables, and in eggs and margarine, which fell 7 to 8 per cent.

Leading the slide were bananas, down from 36¢ to 31¢ for the week ending June 11, lettuce, down a nickel a head to 44¢, potatoes, at $1.06 for five pounds, down 21¢, and pork chops on special at $1.62 compared to $1.89 for the previous week.

The price of the other foods in the market basket remained stable.

Decision on Lynch Is Due

ALBANY — Doctors will decide Tuesday whether to amputate the foot of accused kidnaper Mel Patrick Lynch or to transfer him from Albany Medical Center if the ankle wound he sustained in an earlier escape attempt from Benedictine Hospital is healing.

His release from the medical center and transfer to either Westchester County Jail, which has hospital facilities, or Ulster County, is being sought by Ulster Sheriff Thomas Mayone. The sheriff objects strenuously to the $400 a day it is costing Ulster County for round-the-clock surveillance of Lynch at Albany. Mayone has also suggested that it Lynch is to remain in Albany, that that county assume the obligation of guarding the prisoner, who is charged with kidnapping Seagram's liquor heir Samuel Bronfman II last October.

New York State Department of Corrections, which transferred the responsibility for Lynch's care from Westchester County to Ulster last October, promised Mayone and Ulster County Legislator Clifford N. Snyder, R-Dist. 3, last week it would come to a decision about Lynch after the medical examination.

Tight surveillance of Lynch has been necessitated by three reported attempts on his life at Albany. Mayone said today he is worried that because his deputies are not familiar with Albany Medical personnel that "anyone in a white coat could walk into Lynch's room and kill him."

Mayone also concerned because of differing opinions among doctors there as to the condition of Lynch's foot which has been long in healing. Lynch broke his ankle April 5 when he jumped from Benedictine Hospital window in Kingston where he had been taken after experiencing a heart attack at Ulster County Jail. The sheriff said that two physicians in Albany agreed to release Lynch from the center but two others held out, one of them a plastic surgeon. Mayone objects to any proposed surgery for "cosmetic reasons." Lynch also sustained spine injuries in his escape attempt.

The sheriff is concerned that guarding him 24 hours a day in Albany is not only hard on the pocketbooks of Ulster County taxpayers, but a "continued drain on our personnel reducing the effectiveness of our overall security coverage throughout Ulster County."

Lynch is in Albany on order of the corrections department and it is up to the agency if that order is to be reversed.

"Hopefully the commissioners will break the order," Mayone said, standing by his long-standing position that Lynch is the responsibility of Westchester, not Ulster County. The corrections department ordered Lynch to Ulster's jail after threats were made against his life in Westchester.

Should Lynch's foot be sufficiently healed to enable his transfer out of Albany, Ulster jail physician Dr. Sigmund Brock has suggested he be returned here to Ulster jail infirmary.

The cost of keeping Lynch in Albany is actually far greater than the $400 a day for guarding him. Medical bills from Albany Medical Center have not been received by government officials as yet.

Westchester has maintained it would pay for any medical bills arising out for treatment of his heart condition but questions how much liability it has for medical bills stemming from the escape attempt.

Ulster County Attorney Abram Molyneux has said that on the surface "there are not sufficient grounds for Westchester County to avoid its responsibility."

Mayone and Snyder expect to meet with corrections officials again this week in Albany.

Power Poles Are Source of PCB

ALBANY (UPI) — A researcher in the state Department of Environmental Conservation said Sunday capacitors on electric poles across the country could represent a "fairly significant" source of toxic PCB's (polychlorinated biphenyls) never before investigated.

Pathologist Dr. Ward Stone said the capacitors use anywhere from two to 30 pounds of the material as fire retardants. PCB's came under public scrutiny after it was learned the General Electric Co. was discharging large amounts of the chemical into the Hudson River.

Should the capacitors rupture, which Stone says is not uncommon, the PCB's can seep into the ground, eventually contaminating ground water and damaging delicate ecosystems.

Despite estimates that capacitors were the source for only .2 per cent of the PCB's entering the environment in 1974, Stone said the fact that they are used widely and for a long period of time could result in a "fairly significant loss, even at such a low per cent."

Stone said the leakage problem has gone unnoticed for many years because a loss of power does not result. He began his research after officials of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company reported two ruptures to him.

"I wrote memos on it in 1969, 1970, and 1971," the researcher said, "but I don't think anybody ever looked into it to see how significant it really was."

Stone said damage done by the leaks "can never be completely cleaned up." He says the final answer to the problem is the replacement of PCB's with "environmentally safe material which does the job." Such replacement fluids, he said, are currently being manufactured and their use would be "to the advantage of all living things including people and power companies."

Stone noted the federal Environmental Protection Agency has also begun research into the matter.

Committee Okays Water Flow Bill

ALBANY — New York City's "callousness" toward the Catskills seemed to soften Friday when all but one member of the New York State Assembly's Ways and Means Committee voted to report out Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey's, D-101st Dist., bill to increase water releases from Catskill reservoirs.

Increased releases are needed to restore the ecological balance of the streams, Hinchey and Jean Amato, D-98th Dist., a co-sponsor believe. The bill passed the Senate May 13 but got bogged down in the Assembly Ways and Means Committee where it was predicted it would never see the light of day because of downstate sentiment.

New York City legislators feared their own water resources would be jeopardized. Hinchey pointed out, however, that many studies have shown a regular flow of water would not endanger the city's water supplies.

A concerted effort on the part of Hinchey and Ms. Amato helped the bill get out of committee with only Bronx Assemblyman G. Oliver Kopell, D-84, voting against it.

Hinchey, a member of the Environmental Conservation Committee, said New York City's infrequent release of water from city-owned Neversink, Cannonsville and Pepacton reservoirs on the Delaware River, seem unnecessary.

The policy causes harm to fish and other wildlife life in the rivers and streams fed by the reservoirs, he explained.

There has been rising concern on the part of sportsmen and environmentalists for a change in policy.

City officials, who have long denied requests for release of more water, reportedly have agreed to a trial three-month doubling of the present release during the summer months. Environmentalists maintain, however, that the doubling will not be sufficient to aid dry riverbeds, which carry only one-tenth of the natural flow for this time of the year.

Several hearings on the proposal were held earlier this year to get testimony from government officials, local residents and all persons concerned with the downstream environmental and economic effects of the current city water release policy.

Releases through the Shandaken tunnel in Ulster County have also been the subject of concern in recent years.

Demo Delegates Listen to Candidates

NEW YORK — State delegates to the Democratic convention heard talks by former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, Arizona Rep. Morris Udall and California Gov. Edmund Brown today as they gathered in New York to plan the national convention scheduled here.

Brown planned to address a caucus of women delegates. The only Democrat still in the running against Carter, he conceded today he has little chance of winning the nomination at this point but insisted his hopes remain high.

Three Dead in Crash on Rt. 28

SHANDAKEN — Three persons were killed and another seriously injured in a head-on collision on Route 28 in Shandaken Sunday night, according to the Ulster County Sheriff's Department.

Other Accident Stories and Pictures on Page 16

Carol Hogan, 23, Drybrook, was driving west with her husband Michael and her five-month-old daughter Heather when an eastbound vehicle operated by a 55-year-old woman from New Hyde Park, Long Island, veered into the westbound lane and collided with her car, police said.

The Shandaken Police requested assistance from the Ulster County Sheriff's Department at 9:20 p.m. Sunday.

The Town of Shandaken Ambulance Corps and the Phoenixia Fire Department were also called to the scene. The investigation was conducted by Sheriff Thomas Mayone.

Coroner Keyser pronounced Mrs. Hogan dead at the scene. Her daughter Heather was pronounced dead on arrival at Benedictine Hospital, as was the Long Island woman, whose name has been withheld pending notification of next of kin. Michael Hogan is reported in poor condition in the intensive care unit at Benedictine Hospital.

Ulster County Groups Win Bicentennial Cash Grants

KINGSTON — Two Ulster County organizations have been selected to receive cash grants by the New York State Bicentennial Commission.

The D and H Canal Historical Society of High Falls will receive $700 for construction of dioramas on canal life and the Kingston Bicentennial Commission will receive $1,000 for a film on the Bill of Rights.

The two grants were among the 17 approved in New York State from among more than 400 applicants.

"We found ourselves in a position of having hundreds more good programs than there were funds to support," said John M. G. Pell, NYSBC chairman. "We urge the private sector of New York's industry and business to continue to come forward so that many more Bicentennial plans can become realities."

Donald Martin of New Paltz, chairman of the canal society, said the funds would be used by a team of volunteers who have been assisting the society. Mrs. Connie Olguin, a commercial artist, Mrs. Jaimee Uhlenbrouck, who teaches art history at the State University College at New Paltz, and architect James Polshek, dean of the Columbia University School of Architecture and a Stone Ridge resident, are making detailed plans for the museum, which was dedicated recently after being purchased last fall. It is located on Mohonk Avenue in High Falls.

The film for which the Kingston Bicentennial Commission received the grant was directed by Bill Skilling, program director of radio station WGHQ, from an original script by David Robison. John Weber of IBM Kingston served as producer and IBM gave technical assistance to the production.

The film, depicting events in Kingston in 1773, was made with 15 local actors. It depicts the events surrounding Governor George Clinton's refusal to ratify the Constitution until a Bill of Rights was included.

Filming has been completed and the film is now being edited and scored. The commission hopes to have it ready for a public premiere in conjunction with the Sept. 18 meeting of the New York State Assembly in Kingston.

From the $40,000 made available by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration in Washington, $24,000 will be used for such state-sponsored projects as the Bicentennial barge and the Dutch Sloop Hudson River Voyage Project, with the remainder going to the 17 individual applicants.

Details Today On Swine Flu

KINGSTON — County health officials were to explain the details of a five-month program to immunize all Ulster County residents against swine flu at a press conference this morning.

The mass immunization clinic, largest in county history, will begin July 1 with the goal of vaccinating all county residents by the end of November.

The possibility of a serious swine flu epidemic and the need for immunization against it were to be discussed by Ulster County Health Commissioner Dr. Bartholomew J. Dutto.

The immunization program is tied in with the State Health Department's campaign to immunize all New Yorkers, and the federal vaccination program recently passed by Congress.

Dutchess Brothers Jailed

WINGDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — Two Dutchess County brothers were being held without bail today after pleading innocent to stealing two cars from a restaurant parking lot here, one of which contained a sleeping woman.

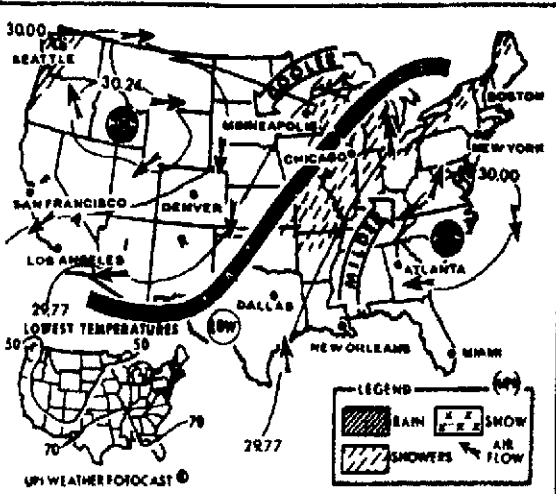

Adelbert Leight, 18, was charged with unlawful imprisonment and his brother David, 21, was accused of theft of services and unauthorized use of a vehicle.

Police said the brothers, both of Wingdale, left the Wingdale Diner early Sunday morning without paying for their food, then each stole a car in the diner's parking lot and drove away. Officials said the car reportedly taken by the younger Leight had a woman sleeping in it. When she awoke, the suspect apparently told her that her husband had given him permission to borrow the car to pick up his own wife, police said. He said he planned to return the car to the diner.

However, he drove the car to nearby Wassau, where he fled on foot.

He was arrested several hours later. His brother, David, was also picked up and the car he allegedly took was recovered.

Telluride Up Tight About 4th

TELLURIDE, Colo. (UPI) — While practically every other town in the country will celebrate the nation's 200th birthday next month, the Rocky Mountain resort of Telluride will be shut tight.

"Although always welcome at other times of the year, visitors are kindly being asked to stay away from Telluride on the Fourth of July this year," said a chamber of commerce spokesman.

He said that was the only way to keep out the "unruly, drunk and unmanageable hoards." "Even a substantial economic sacrifice would be preferable to another migration of rowdy, careless and drunken crowds. The town of Telluride will collectively say no to the annual debacle," the spokesman said.

Grape Outlook Sour

By UPI

Prospects for upstate grape growers are not bright for a second straight year.

Grape growers in the Finger Lakes region will again apparently have trouble finding markets for their produce as spokesmen say wine sales remain low and many wineries have grape surpluses left over from last year's harvest.

Thomas Zabadal, Finger Lakes grape specialist based in Penn Yan, said the continued glut of California-grown grapes flooding the market is still hurting New York State grape growers.

California growers are also feeling the pinch, added Zabadal, "but their operation is structured differently than ours and they can absorb this better than the small growers here."

One Finger Lakes winery, Gold Seal, recently told about 70 long-time growers that it can take none of their grapes this year.

Another, Taylor Wine Co., amended its agreements with several hundred growers last fall, allowing it to buy less than the entire crop available to the company.

And other Finger Lake wineries are in similar binds. This year, growers are expected to push some of their grapes for table use in an effort to reduce high surpluses. Zabadal expects this year's crop will be good "and certainly won't fail unless there is some horrendous weather."

As much as 53,000 tons of grapes may be harvested from the Finger Lakes area's 18,000 acres of vineyards this fall, Zabadal said, adding that there were not enough markets to absorb that total.

Crackdown on Alien Marriages Planned

NEW YORK (UPI) — A crackdown by city and federal authorities on "marriages of convenience" between illegal aliens and welfare recipients may save New York City nearly $1 million a year in welfare payments, officials say.

Human Resources Administrator J. Henry Smith said Sunday 736 persons, including 103 illegal aliens, have been dropped from welfare rolls as the result of a two-year joint effort with federal immigration agents.

Smith said the eliminations mean a saving of $76,500 a month.

"Our duty is to provide public assistance to any United States citizen who is eligible under the law," he said. "However, it is also our responsibility to deny it to those who are ineligible."

"This program is part of an effort to insure that when a client tells us her husband is unemployed or not living at home, she is giving us complete information."

Smith said that in June 1974 immigration authorities began putting through city computers the names of women petitioning for residency status for their illegal alien husbands to see if either was receiving public assistance.

If the computer check turned up a name, the federal and city investigators would compare the woman's reported income, employment and other information to see if her statements were consistent.

Where discrepancies arose, an investigating team from both agencies interviewed the recipient to see if fraud was involved.

Smith said the agencies were looking for "marriages of convenience," set up — sometimes for money — so an illegal alien could remain in the United States.

If the woman admitted her marriage was one of convenience or said her husband deserted her, she was given an opportunity to withdraw her petition for residency status for her husband, thus opening him to arrest and possible deportation.

On the other hand, if the woman claimed her marriage was legitimate and she had not previously reported that her husband was living in the household, she faced welfare fraud charges. Then, steps were initiated to recover the money, Smith said.

He said 195 residency status petitions were withdrawn during the operation.

N.Y. Demo Delegates Hear the Candidates

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York's delegates to the Democratic national convention gather here today to listen to the candidates and consider rules and procedural matters.

Addressing the 274 delegates and 118 alternates are former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, Arizona Rep. Morris Udall and California Gov. Edmund Brown.

Carter has lined up a stable of prominent supporters, including Mayor Abraham Beame, Gov. Hugh Carey, Lt. Gov. Mary Anne Krupak, former Mayor Robert Wagner, former Gov. Averell Harriman and Assembly Speaker

Stanley Steingut to meet with delegates and urge them to support his campaign.

Brown is expected to address a caucus of women delegates. The California governor, the only Democrat still openly challenging Carter's commanding lead in delegate strength and endorsements, has refused to give up.

"I'm not unaware of the numbers," the California governor said Sunday at a Salute to Israel parade. "I'd say my expectations are low but my hopes are high."

Beame, officially committed to Washington Sen. Henry Jackson, pledged his support for Carter once he is freed of his first-ballot obligation at the convention.

Carey, who has been mentioned as a possible Carter running mate, joined the tide Saturday and endorsed Carter as a "brilliant and intelligent" campaigner.

Gollnick Hits Cuts in Firemen

ALBANY (UPI) — Cities across the country are "playing with people's lives and property" in reducing the ranks of municipal firemen, the head of the State Firefighters Association charged Sunday.

Robert Gollnick, who heads the 25,000 member group, said many cities have trimmed their fire forces in recent years while the numbers of fires and alarms have doubled.

Gollnick said firefighters are becoming "increasingly uneasy" about a manpower shortage which he said is endangering life and property and causing record numbers of firemen to be killed and injured.

He said 15 firemen were killed in the line of duty last year and ten have been lost so far this year, while the number of injured has doubled since 1972.

OTB Suffered a Crushing Defeat

Dear Editor:

I dare you to publish the following: (To the people who read the Daily Freeman:

A Thursday issue of the Freeman supposedly "reports" on the public hearing on O.T.B. the previous evening that the hearing "seemed to end in a standoff"...That's like saying that your home team "seemed to tie their opponents" when they lost 18 to 4. Only, this kind of reporting has taken place in a paper's lead article, on the front page about a matter far more earth-shaking than a ball game.

The fact of the matter is that O.T.B. suffered a crushing defeat that Wednesday evening, regardless of what the editors or reporters of the Daily Freeman would have liked to have seen happen. And what they should report in news articles is what happens. If they want to tell us what they would like to see happen, they have complete control of the editorial column and they can try propagandizing us there.

If the paper wants to take another crack at reporting facts, they might add to the list of opinions aired on this subject the opinion of the N.Y. State Council of Churches, and of the Kingston Area Council of Churches, which I officially represented, namely the opinion that government endorsement of gambling hurts the public far more than it helps it, if only we look beyond the quick buck the county or the state may derive.

Declared Dead over the Phone

Dear Editor:

When the Mafia finds out the situation in Ulster County in regards to the coroners, they may make a Mecca of the land on which to dump their bodies. The coroner may even look at the bullet holes and declare that the person fell down a flight of stairs.

Last December, when I came home and found my wife dead I called the State Police. Within an hour a trooper and a B.C.I. agent were here. They tried for over an hour to get a coroner to come, but they could not, so next they started calling doctors and finally someone declared her dead over the telephone so that the undertaker could remove her.

On Saturday, May 30, Charles Ford of Oliveira died in the Kingston Hospital. No one could locate a coroner which resulted in the undertaker not being able to have the body until 4 o'clock Tuesday, June 1.

Let's hope that too many bodies are not dumped in Ulster County.

Reply to McMickle Criticisms

Dear Editor:

I would like to comment on Mary McMickle's letter to the editor of Sunday, May 16th. It was very saddening to read a letter so full of degrading and maligning remarks.

The student of today has to put up with much more criticism than the "average" citizen of our community does. If a student turns to drugs or drops out of school, thus fading out of the "establishment" scene, he or she is condemned for not being wholesome, intelligent or concerned about his community and fellow man. Then, when a student takes the initiative to become involved in school and community affairs, she is condemned as vehemently as the dropout is.

I would like to remind you that I am of voting age, I do exercise that right, and I am guaranteed, by law, the right to freedom of speech!

As far as Miss McMickle's letter is concerned, it is filled with many half-truths, a characteristic common to most of the WHITA propaganda. I would like to clear up the apparent misunderstanding for Miss McMickle.

1) I never publicly told anyone, including Miss McMickle, that I was in favor of Len Cane or Ronald Meyer for the school board position; that had nothing to do with my calling "Open Mike." My endorsement was simply a brilliant deduction on her part.

2) I never condemned Mr. Feraca for spending his or anyone else's money on his campaign advertising for his school board seat. I was just wondering why he would go to such great lengths to secure a non-paying position on our school board.

3) I never condemned WHITA's voting methods. After asking Mr. Thayer how the WHITA endorsements were made (he is a member of their board of directors), he graciously explained they used secret ballots. I made no derogatory remarks towards WHITA, their voting, or of Mr. Feraca or Mr. Jackson.

Furthermore, if Miss McMickle still looks down upon me as some sort of child, she should continue to realize that children tend to ask questions. The big question I asked on Mr. Thayer's program, the one that probably bothered Miss McMickle the most but conveniently neglected to mention in her letter, was this: What does WHITA want with our school system?

Last May, WHITA endorsed four candidates for the school board. In the fall election, WHITA endorsed a fifth candidate. All five were elected to the school board sharing a common belief that there would be no new high school in Kingston.

In December of 1975, the contract renewals of our three associate superintendents were voted upon. At a workshop meeting prior to the Thursday evening public meeting, a sample vote was taken to determine the outcome of the contract renewals. Four votes were cast against and five were in favor of the contract renewals. Ronald Meyers was the fifth "yes" vote. The following Wednesday morning, Mr. Meyer received a telephone call from the president of WHITA, directing him to change his vote. Supposedly, he was not going along with "Freddie and the Boys".

He was also told that if he wanted WHITA's endorsement for this May's election, he had better vote against the contract renewals, or he would lose the May election. Mr. Meyer did not change his vote. This information was revealed to the public at a recent "Meet the Candidates" night.

Since that December incident occurred, Mr. Meyer has continued to vote his own conscience, however, he has not been without grief. He has received numerous crank telephone calls, as well as many threats - all because he supposedly went "against" WHITA. A fellow board member even stooped so low that she called Mr. Meyer a "turncoat" when she saw him at a P.T.O. meeting.

If WHITA so viciously condemned one board member for having the courage to ignore their directives, wouldn't that condemn all WHITA endorsed candidates? After knowing what has been going on behind closed doors for at least six months now, I cannot bring myself to stay silent any longer. I want to know - what does WHITA want with our school board? Are they trying to create a power bloc such as the residents of the Ontario School District profess they have on their school board? And if so, for what reason?

And please, Miss McMickle, let us refrain from becoming any more uptight and vicious over this "Open Mike" issue than you already have. After all, if WHITA really has nothing to hide, they should welcome any comments or criticism about their organization. Miss McMickle may have tried to annoy me by deliberately calling me a child, but I ignored it after considering the source from which it came. The phrase, "acid spew coming from her mouth", was indeed very distasteful and totally uncalled for. I sometimes wonder if you, Miss McMickle, are not living through your second childhood. Let's try to keep name calling and personalities out of future issues. Remember, Miss McMickle, age does not determine one's maturity in life.

Marbletown Needs Road Help

Dear Editor:

If there is anyone in the area who knows how to repair roads, he is headed by the Town of Marbletown, desperately! Someone ought to tell these people that oil and gravel do not make a road. Every year they resurface the road. First, a truck coats it with oil. Then it is covered with gravel. Finally, the roller smooths it or rather, tries to smooth it. The road is actually so uneven (to be kind) or falling apart (to be factual) that there is not much that the roller can accomplish. I don't know what they call this process, but to me it is useless. Sure, the road looks good - right after it is completed. Beginning the very next day, the traffic (what there is of it) causes all the stone to move to the side of the road. The result: the road is as bad as it always has been and all of that time and money is wasted.

My suggestion is that they take all of the blacktop which they use to "patch" the road, start at one end of the road, and re-do the whole road. Blacktop the entire road. It may take a little bit more time but it will last a lot longer.

A year or so ago, The Freeman did a story on the hazards of traveling on Ashokan and Lapla Roads. I wish they would do a picture sequence on the road itself. First, a shot of the road before repair. Second, during resurfacing, and third, about a week or so after completion of the resurfacing process. I'm afraid that the first and third pictures may look quite similar, but maybe it will move people toward action in the right direction. Something really ought to be done.

No Courts in Schools

WASHINGTON - Our much-deferred-to Attorney General, Edward Levi, has been poring over his maps, trying to find a place where he can pull back the yellow buses. Like other kinds of generals, he's finding out it's often easier to get the troops into a place than it is to get them out.

While we wait to learn what tortured and tattered constitutional doctrine the Justice Department will invent to justify some busing but not too much, we might meditate on how we got ourselves into this judicial, pedagogical transportation mess. It began an eon and a half ago with the 1954 Brown decision striking down de jure school segregation.

The conservatives screamed about that one but they based their arguments on states rights technicalities that they themselves only half-heartedly believed. It was when the courts and the lawyers discovered the state had a positive obligation to get rid of de facto school segregation that we were all loaded on the Yellow buses and dispatched by the judges down the expressway toward this absolutely useless controversy.

De facto segregation, as the judges themselves pointed out, was rooted in institutional racism coupled with classic forms of economic exploitation. As such it was beyond the power of any court to deal with. It's one thing for a judge to stamp void on an unconstitutional law, it's another thing for a court to affirmatively legislate against a prevailing sentiment, no matter how vile.

In our political system, the only way de facto segregation could have been eliminated was through the legislative process. Only the legislatures, state and federal, could decree such changes and have them accepted, for only the legislators are popularly elected. Without giving comfort to the racist brutes prowling the streets of Boston to administer corporal punishment on persons with unpopular genetic matter, it is still true that the city is under a form of judicial martial law. In the eyes of many, in Boston and elsewhere, the decisions of that federal court are illegitimate.

By intervening to compel obedience to their conception of equality, the judges and lawyers have not only come up with a preposterous and impractical non-solution, but they've also damaged the democratic process. They've done it by taking the legislatures off the hook. Elective officials are delighted to let appointive judges take over the responsibility for such a bitter and difficult controversy.

The proponents of court intervention have always argued that these are questions of constitutional rights and as such they are outside the process of majority decision-making, but it's not so. This whole area is disputed terrain. It's not like the right to vote. If you recall that controversy, even the Southern diehards didn't dispute that. They simply denied they were preventing blacks from voting by fraud and violence.

Busing and how to handle the whole question of providing black children with not only equal but adequate schooling is anything but a settled question. Which means it is preeminently a political and legislative one.

If the courts had had the wisdom to stay out of it, there's no reason to think the fight would have been settled by now or that the good guys would have won quite yet. Democracy is a galling and irritating process. The majority is not always right; a persuasive case can be made that 75 percent of the voters

Hays Ray's Best Lover

WASHINGTON — There is more to the celebrated Wayne Hays-Elizabeth Ray affair than the bosomy blonde has revealed.

Sources close to the notorious pair say the strip-and-tell mistress was in love with Hays. It was primarily jealousy over his marriage to another woman, Pat Peak, that provoked Ray into baring her two-year affair with the powerful Ohio Congressman, the sources say.

Bitterly, she charged that Hays' advances had compelled her to consult a psychiatrist, that she was revulsed at having sexual relations with the 65-year-old Hays.

But her friends say she told them quite a different story. Although the relationship was an emotional roller-coaster ride for Ray, she spoke of the gruff Hays as an inwardly sensitive man for whom she felt a deep affection.

She told friends, indeed, that Hays was the "best" lover she'd ever had.

After she burst her bombshell, we have learned, it almost wrecked Hays' marriage. For several days, his new bride refused to speak to him.

At first, the old curmudgeon turned his back on his Washington troubles and concentrated on saving his brief marriage. To spare his bride further anguish, he told friends, "I would put a bullet through my head." Added the broken Hays meaningfully: "And I've got the guts to do it."

We got the first inkling of the torrid Ray-Hays romance more than two years ago when Elizabeth Ray called our office in a hysterical crying fit. Between sobs, she blurted that she was about to lose her Capitol Hill job because she "would not go to bed with Wayne Hays."

Our associates Bob Owens and Jack Cloberty hurried up to Capitol Hill to see her. But by the time they reached her, she had changed her story. She wanted our reporters to forget about the call.

But that wasn't the last time we heard from Liz Ray. She called our office repeatedly. We found her erratic, unreliable and unpredictable. We concluded that her outburst against Hays had resulted from a lovers' quarrel, that her attitude toward him fluctuated with the status of their romance and that the two of them were exploiting one another. But there was no way we could base a story, we decided, upon her statements.

She also boasted of relationships, we learned, of such prominent Washington figures as Senators Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, and John Culver, D-Iowa.

In each case, she used Hays' name to reach the Senator on the phone. She would engage the Senator in an aimless conversation, then would keep calling back. Most of her calls were never returned.

Some of the Senators now believe she had a purpose for the calls. They suspect she taped them in order to prove she had a speaking acquaintance with them. This now gives credibility to the paperback potboiler she began preparing a year ago.

Sources close to Hays say he tried to break off the relationship with the shapely blonde some time ago. He knew she was dating several other men and regarded her as too promiscuous. He was also afraid that she would disclose the affair if he ended it.

Shortly after his divorce, he had dinner with Ray at Washington's fashionable Paul Yung's restaurant. He chided her for not working hard enough. Later, according to witnesses, she asked Hays why he wouldn't marry her. Once she left the table to go to the rest room. She sashayed across the restaurant, tossing her hips in an exhibition of what she herself calls her "Walk."

She stopped at another table to engage a prominent Washington lawyer in conversation. Hays gestured toward the scene and remarked to the others at his table: "That's why I can't marry her."

There were times, according to our sources, when the temperamental Ray would threaten to cause a scene in Hays' office unless he went out with her. The biggest blowout occurred after a heated argument about Hays' impending marriage. The Capitol Police were summoned to remove Ray from Hays' office. Not long afterward, she told her story to the Washington Post.

The sex life of Wayne Hays is his own business. The only issue, as the Post pointed out, is whether he hired her to be his mistress on a government salary. A grand jury has been convened to examine the evidence, and Elizabeth Ray has been granted immunity to tell her story.

It may be difficult to get a straight story out of her. Here are just a few contradictions that have already appeared in her statements:

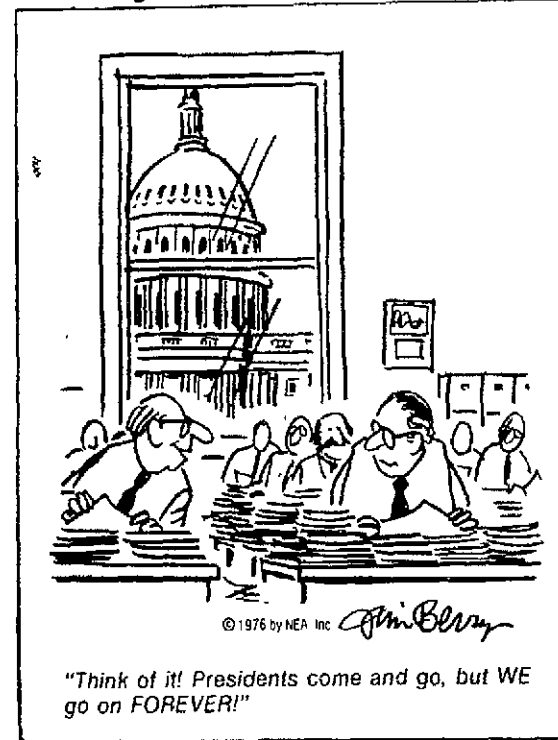

— She told the Washington Post that she was hired strictly to be Hays' mistress, that she can't type or use the telephone. Our reporters have seen her several times in her Capitol Hill office. She can type, answer telephones and take messages. They have seen her do it, albeit perhaps not as well as other secretaries. Hays has affidavits from more than 35 other people who have also seen her type. He has copies of letters she has typed.

— She also said she couldn't use a tape recorder. We have heard a tape she made of a conversation with our associate Bob Owens.

— She stated at first that she was 27 years old. She is actually 33. And at alternate times, she has said she does and does not drink.

The last laugh may be on the Justice Department which, it appears, may have granted Elizabeth Ray immunity too hastily, providing her with a forum to sell her book and promote herself.

A Fop Was the Colonies' Firey Messenger

The unsung hero of the American revolution was a dandy, a fop, a man with a lacy kerchief sticking from a brocade sleeve. He was Dr. Joseph Warren of Boston, a man so fearless that he doomed himself to die early in the struggle.

He was seldom seen walking under the maples of Roxbury without a powdered wig, white stockings, brass buckled shoes and a waistcoat which flared starchily from his slender hips. He had a rich wife and four children and a medical practice so broad that Warren inoculated John Adams against smallpox and treated British redcoats for pneumonia.

Warren was the finest of American patriots, one prepared to pledge his life, his treasure, his honor to the 13 colonies. He, more than John Hancock or Samuel Adams, understood the uses of propaganda in a revolution.

When five persons were killed by British redcoats, it was Warren who told the world the story of the "Boston Massacre." He used the British colonial postal service to do it. His fiery message about "our women and children falling in the bloody snow" was carried by English couriers to all towns and hamlets.

In addition, he had his own messengers. On April 17th, 1775, he ordered two of them, Paul Revere and William Daves, to ride hard for Lexington and Concord and warn the people that the redcoats were coming.

The British did not seek battle. They had two objectives: (1) seize illegal ammunition and muskets; (2) arrest Samuel Adams and John Hancock.

There was a fire fight. Two days later, Dr. Warren wrote his account, sending copies to all colonies, stating that the British "have the ferocity of a mad, wild beast; they slaughter geese, hogs, cattle and every living creature they come across, murdering women and children."

The doctor wrote that when the British searched vainly for Samuel Adams and John Hancock in a public house, "the barbarians killed the women of the house and all the children in cold blood, then set the house afire." There were "depredations, ruins and butcheries hardly to be matched by the armies of any civilized nation on the globe."

In truth, the British Prime Minister, Lord North, saw Lexington and Concord as the most magnificent retreat in the history of the British army. The lobsterbacks never learned to fight farmers who crouched behind walls.

Dr. Warren railed against the monster, General Thomas Gage, who was in Boston with his army. Warren begged the other colonies to please raise troops at once to help Massachusetts Bay from being crushed.

"The barbarous murders committed on our innocent brethren have made it absolutely necessary that we immediately raise an army to defend our wives and children from the butchering hands of an inhuman soldiery. We conjure you, therefore, by all that is sacred, that you give assistance in forming an army."

"Our all is at stake. Death and devastation are the certain consequences of delay." Well, not quite. British General Gage and his army were in Boston - true. But they were prisoners. They had but two ways out - sail to sea in the fleet, or fight the Minute Men on Breed's Hill.

Dr. Warren aroused the colonies. Virginia sent troops. So did Connecticut. And Delaware with their splashy cream uniforms and blue lapels. When General Gage sent his report of Lexington and Concord to King George and Parliament, Dr. Warren waited for a fast clipper, Quero, and beat Gage to London with his atrocity story.

The doctor, handsome, urbane, a model of decorum, was the first and best press agent for the revolution. He was brevetted a major general a day before the battle of Bunker Hill, but he said the document had not reached him and he would fight as a private under General Israel Putnam.

He arrived in battle on a black horse. He wore a waistcoat of summer sky blue with lace cuffs. The skirt was white ruffled lace. His riding breeches were blinding white. He wore silve buckles and exuded good cheer. He exhorted every man to be a man.

He was still riding to the British line when a musket ball smashed his head. Slowly, almost gracefully, he fell. Dr. Warren left a thought for all: "The have begun it. That either party can do. And we will end it; that only on can do..."

Wedding Bells Ring for June Brides

Vellake-Costa

Nuptial Vows were exchanged by Cynthia Nan Vellake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Vellake of 21 West Chester Street, and Joseph Francis Costa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Costa, 42 Willwyck Avenue, Saturday, June 5, at the Church of the Holy Name of Jesus.

The Rev. Brian Kennedy and the Rev. Msgr. James Reynolds officiated at the marriage. Wayne Cusher was organist and The Children's Choir sang.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, selected a traditional white gown of silk organza in Empire styling and accented with Chantilly lace.

Gina Misasi was honor attendant and bridesmaids were Marlene Costa of Kingston, Kelly Duncan of Newburgh, Lori Romeo of Saugerties and Ann Marie Valentino of Rhode Island. Alexandria Stevens of Kingston niece of the bridegroom was flower girl.

Louis M. Naccarato was best man. Ushers were Peter Stager of Rifton, Frank Parslow of Stone Ridge, Charles Saccoman of Kingston, William Novotny III of Stone Ridge and Peter Rua of Kingston. Michael Naccarato, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

A wedding reception was given at The Holiday Inn.

The bride was graduated from Kingston High School in 1974 and is employed at Ulster Savings Bank.

Her husband was graduated from Kingston High School in 1972 and is employed at Johnson Ford and is a licensed Insurance Broker.

Mr. and Mrs. Costa will reside in Kingston.

Kalamucki-Vance

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kalamucki of Modena announce the marriage of their daughter, Nancy J. Kalamucki, to Henry M. Vance III of Newburgh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vance Jr., of Canisteo. The wedding took place June 5 at the Reformed Church of New Paltz with the Rev. David Corlett officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She wore an antique satin gown with fitted waist, bell sleeves trimmed with lace motif and a sheer scalloped bodice insert. Miss Laura King of Oyster Bay, L.I., was maid of honor. Bridal attendants were Mrs. Laurie Frueh of Modena, Miss Doreen Covino of Ardonia and Miss Rose Romano of Modena. Tim Kelly of Canisteo was best man. Ushers were Thomas Guyette of Michigan, Stanley Bomert of Maryland and James Vance of Canisteo, brother of the bridegroom.

A wedding reception was given in New Paltz. The bride attended SUNY at Delhi and is employed as a secretary at the Highland National Bank, Newburgh. Her husband attended Paul Smith's College and is a military policeman at West Point, USMA.

Mr. and Mrs. Vance will make their home at Stewart Gardens, Stewart Airfield, Newburgh.

Anzelone-Rosa

Constance M. Anzelone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Anzelone of New Paltz, became the bride of James R. Rosa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rosa of Main Street, New Paltz, May 29, at St. Augustine's Church, Highland.

Nuptial vows were exchanged before the Rev. Gollinge.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white organza styled with empire waist, sleeves of sheer flowing organza and skirt terminating in an attached chapel length train. Soft flowers of embroidered Venice lace accented the waist, neckline and wrists. Her fingertip length veil was made by her sister. Miss Margaret Anzelone of Highland was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Miss Maria Anzelone of Highland, a sister of the bride, and Miss Melissa Rosa of New Paltz.

Victor Semenjuk Jr. of Hurley was best man. Ushers were Robert Ottens of New Paltz and David Kren of Port Ewen.

A wedding reception was given at the Hedges.

Mrs. Rosa was graduated from Highland High School and SUNY at New Paltz where she received a BS degree in elementary education. She is employed at Grand Union in New Paltz. Her husband was graduated from New Paltz High School and SUNY at New Paltz where he received a BS degree in Biology. He is employed at the Grand Union in Saugerties.

Mr. and Mrs. Rosa will make their home in Highland.

Secreto-Ingarra

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Melnik of 47 Arlmont Street announce the marriage of her daughter, Carol Ann Secreto of 37-5 Woodlake Road, Albany, to Joseph Michael Ingarra, son of Mrs. Lucille Ingarra of 145 Wall Street, and the late Dr. Thomas Ingarra.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Msgr.

James V. Keating at St. Joseph's Church, Kingston, Sunday, May 30.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, the bride wore a gown of ivory organza fashioned with high stand-up neckline, long sleeves, empire waist, A-line skirt with flounce at the hemline and terminating in a chapel length train. The gown was adorned with appliques of re-embroidered Alcanon lace and pearls. Ms. Jeanne Secreto, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Ms. Annarose Ingarra, sister of the bridegroom, of Kingston and Ms. Lizabeth Elder of Albany were bridesmaids.

Thomas Ingarra of Kingston was best man for his brother. Ushers were Gene Petersen of Woodstock and James Scully of Albany. A wedding reception took place at The Capri 400.

The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School and is presently employed in Albany by the Capital District Regional Planning Commission. Her husband was graduated from LaSalle Military Academy, Fordham College and Albany Law School. He has a private law practice in Kingston.

'Just Another Dish' Valued at $1750.00.

NORTHBROOK, Ill.—A major art exchange here reports that a man who found several "dishes" in his attic was amazed to learn that one was valued at $1750.00.

The exchange says that, while this price is unusually high, exceptional collector's plates have been appreciating quickly on the market.

To aid investors, the exchange offers a free report on what to look for, when to buy, what to pay on much more, including opportunities in promising plates still at low prices.

To get your free report with no obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code to the Bradford Exchange, 63022 Bradford Place, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. To be sure of receiving your free copy, please mail your request before June 26, 1976.

Mary Louise Moran Weds J.C. Raymond

The wedding of Mary Louise Moran of Albany, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Moran, East Kingston, to James Conant Raymond, of Albany, son of Attorney and Mrs. Sumner Raymond of Salem, Mass., took place May 29, at a Nuptial Mass in St. Colman's Church, East Kingston.

The Rev. Msgr. Thomas Mullins, pastor of the church, and the Rev. Cecil McFarland, pastor of Ponckhockie Congregational Church, Kingston, officiated. The ceremony was partly written and ready by the bride and bridegroom. Old Testament readings were given by Beverly Radlin and New Testament readings by Sara Schreiber, both of Albany.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of organza designed with high illusion neckline, empire waist, long flounced sleeves, A-line skirt terminating in a chapel length train. The gown and train were trimmed with cluney and Venice lace.

Sue Ann Muto of Webster was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Esther McGuire of Kingston and Susan Raymond of Salem, Mass., sister of the bridegroom.

James Sweeney was organist. Soloist was Mrs. Teresa Dwyer, cousin of the bride.

Robert Raymond of South Harpswell, Maine, was best man for his brother. Ushers were Douglas Griggs of New Jersey, and John Moran of East Kingston, a brother of the bride.

The wedding reception was held at Flamingo Restaurant.

The bride is a 1970 graduate from Kingston High School and a 1974 graduate from SUNY at Albany with a BS degree in nursing. She is employed at the Albany Medical Center.

Her husband is a 1969 graduate of Salem High School and a 1973 graduate of Tuft's University, Mass. He was a graduate student at Boston University and will be a graduate student of counseling at SUNY at Albany.

Following a wedding trip to New England, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond will reside in Albany.

Piano Students Perform Here in Annual Auditions

KINGSTON—A group of piano students from the class of James Sweeney performed in the annual auditions sponsored by the National Guild of piano teachers, June 7 and 8. This year, Mrs. Irene Veley of Williamsport, Pa., was judge. Mrs. Veley is a concert pianist and teaches piano at Lycoming College in Williamsport.

The following students received the National Certificate for successfully performing ten memorized pieces and the major and minor scales: Alicia Barnes, James Childs, Mary Loughlin, Linda Schlichting, and Rudy Schlichting.

Students receiving the state certificate for playing seven memorized pieces and the scales were Deborah Devine, Elaine Kerr, Tracy Larson, Marcy Wagman and Petra Wilson.

Certificates and district award pins were presented to the following in recognition for performing a memorized four-piece program and scales: Julie Chavis, John Devine, Elizabeth Kerr, Amy Larson, Edmund Robertson, and Rosemary Sweeney.

The following pupils received the local certificate and award pin from the guild for performing two memorized pieces and scales: Joanne Bellio, Janet Han, Michael Han, Kathleen Hoppe, Lisa Incalcaterra, Krista Jensen, Jill Kearney, Stephen Kupec, Laura Loughlin, Gina Martin, Carolyn Sand, Diane Schlichting, James P. Sweeney, and Patrick Teetsel.

Every Spring, since 1929, the National Guild auditions have been sponsored in organized centers from Coast to Coast for the purpose of stimulating a deep interest in artistic piano playing. Mr. Sweeney is audition chairman for the local area. He is a faculty member of the Guild and an adjudicator for the Guild auditions.

A BENEFIT BUFFET DINNER was given recently at the home of Mrs. Josephine Marabell and Jennie Rienzo, Harding Avenue, Kingston, for the Rev. Bernard Quilty CSSR, a former Kingston resident, who is celebrating his silver jubilee this month. Father Quilty has spent 22 years of his priesthood in Brazil, including service in the jungles among the poor, the sick and the hungry. A purse amounting to almost $1,000 was presented to him to aid his Brazilian parishioners who are in need. Approximately 70 persons attended the dinner and offered congratulations to Father Quilty on his 25th anniversary as a priest. Pictured here with the guest of honor are the hostesses, Mrs. Marabell, second from left, Miss Rienzo, right, and one of the guests.

Dear Abby

Homework First, Homework First BEFORE Telephone, Television AND 'Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman'

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my 15-year-old daughter. Here is her routine. The minute she comes home from school, she turns on the TV and watches it until supertime.

Right after supper she calls her girlfriend, and they yak for about an hour. Then her boyfriend calls her, and they yak for another hour.

Then she takes a bath and washes her hair. After that, she watches "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman." When it's over, she calls her girlfriend, and they discuss it.

THEN she starts to do her homework. By that time she is all tired out. Her grades are barely passing, and she complains that the teachers give her too much homework. I tell her if she'd start her homework earlier, it wouldn't be "too much."

Abby, how does a mother get through to a 15-year-old with habits like these?—TALKING TO A WALL

DEAR TALKING: You are about 10 years too late to change the work habits (or more appropriately "non-work habits") of your 15-year-old, but try anyway. Insist that she do her homework as soon as she comes home from school. And if she heads for the TV say, "Nothing doing. Nothing doing!"

DEAR ABBY: I know you've had some pretty far-out problems in your life, but this one will surely take the cake.

I am a 16-year-old boy, and to put it bluntly, I've fallen in love with one of my teachers. You may think that's normal for a kid my age, but the teacher happens to be a male, and he's a priest as well.

Although I've never considered myself completely gay, I know love when it happens, and believe me, this is love. I've even considered going into the priesthood just to have more in common with him, but I'm not sure I'd make a good priest.

When this teacher talks to me, I just clam up, so he probably thinks I'm just quiet, so we don't have the greatest relationship. I don't know many girls because this is an all-boy school, but I've dated some.

I know I need some kind of help, but don't suggest a school counselor. I could never face one. I know I'm all mixed up, but I'm not crazy. I keep thinking about this teacher night and day, and that's not normal. Please help me.—MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED: You DO need help, and the best available near you is a school counselor. He's heard your story before (and so have I), so there's no reason to be ashamed. You must talk this out frankly with a professional. You may not even be gay (it could simply be a phase you're going through). I urge you to see a counselor.

DEAR ABBY: Can Cub Scouts join the Brownies now? —LUKE IN SALEM, ORE.

DEAR LUKE: Not to my knowledge. If you're a Cub Scout, you'll have to make brownie points in your own den.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teenagers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 122 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope.

Presenting the 'Super Stars'

KINGSTON—The Ulster County YMCA's first Super Stars competition produced four age group champions this past weekend in Art Driscoll (23-32), Hobie Armstrong (33-42), Art Carpouzis (43-52) and Joe Keller (over 52).

The winners were the best of 57 entries who competed in a choice of six of 13 events plus the mandatory obstacle course. Carpouzis compiled the biggest score of 45 out of a maximum 49 points to outdistance 43-52 runnerup Bill Helmrich by 17 points. His amazing total included five firsts, in paddle ball, 100 yard dash, table tennis, golf and baseball, to go along with second places in basketball and the obstacle course.

Armstrong, the former Kingston High School and Harvard football star, scored 40 points to edge Fred Schwitz by five points. Armstrong also registered five firsts, in the dash, the long jump, weight lifting.

Keller, the closest competition came in the over 52 division where Keller, a distance runner from New Paltz, edged Harry Wiands by a single point 36-35, Keller won the mile run, swimming and weight lifting and picked up seconds in the dash, long jump and obstacle course. Wiands triumphed on the obstacle course and in table tennis and scored three seconds and two thirds.

The youngest age group had the biggest number of entries. Driscoll topped Dan Potter for the honors, 30-20 as he recorded victories in bike racing, weight lifting and the mile run along with a second in the 100 yard dash, a third on the obstacle course and a fourth in the long jump.

In a special feature of the competition, a team event of composite scores of four individuals, the Colonial Health Food Center picked up a great endorsement. The Center ran away with first place scoring 146 points as three of the team members, Driscoll, Carpouzis and Keller, won titles.

Kingston Kiwanis finished a distant second with 83 points followed by Patron Construction at 71, Kingston Securities and First Albany Corporation at 65, Kingston, Lions and Rondout Savings at 55, Jay Steel at 53 and Robert J. Ryan Insurance at 50.

In a special service club challenge of teams, the Kiwanis scored 86 points to claim the revolving Service Club Plaque over the second place Kingston Lions.

Awards were presented Saturday at a banquet at the conclusion of two week-ends of competition.

'Silk' Rewards Her Fans

MONTICELLO—Nearly a year has passed since the occupant of Barn R, Stall 19, last visited this Catskill Mountain resort area track, and in that time she has changed from a rather small, precocious juvenile into a powerful, deep-chested mare.

"Must have put on 200 pounds," said Aaron (Butch) Wisner, 29, Silk Stockings' constant companion, guard and groom. "Wants to eat all the time. That's why she's mad at me now. I put the muzzle on her, otherwise she'd eat straw."

Silk Stockings' return to Monticello Raceway Sunday, the scene of her richest triumph, the Monticello-OTB Classic, didn't disappoint the 5,212 fans who bet her into the ground. The queen of harness racing eased to a three length victory over Dayvander and Owl in the eighth race, an open handicap with a purse of $8,000.

Silk Stockings got a healthy workout by the Monticello pacers, being parked out three-quarters of a mile before driver Preston Burris, Jr. shifted her to high gear and took command around the final turn. She closed in an even 2:00 and paid an across-the-board $2.20, $2.10, $2.10.

The mare has developed into a beauty befitting her station in life. She has grown and now stands about 16 hands high. Her deep, broad chest measures 74 inches (the same as thoroughbred racing's triple crown winner Secretariat.) And her reddish bay coat sparkles.

"She takes care of herself, all right," said Butch with pride and affection. "Every afternoon after a workout she'll lay down and take a little nap for herself. And while she likes to eat she's choosy. You've got to give her timothy, clover or alfalfa, otherwise she won't eat it."

Sunday's race was only the second outing of the year for the four year old mare owned by the Qu Clair Syndicate of Bear, Delaware. She raced in fourth place over the first half as Echo Brook Phil showed early speed, but once Silk Stockings made her challenge the other six males in the race could only stare at the mare's swift pace to the wire.

The 1975 Pacer of the Year caused a $136.53 minus pool in the wagering. Her share of the purse sent her lifetime earnings to $495,467.

"She's very competitive," said Butch. "That's what makes her a champion. When she gets to the paddock she's as restless as a four year old waiting for her birthday party to begin."

Silk Stockings' greatest victory occurred here last July 27 during the first running of the world's richest harness race, the Monticel New York OTB Classic. Worth $250,000 last year and an estimated $300,000 this year, the race was a romp for Silky. She won by six lengths and established a new track record of 1:57.4.

The queen is not only talented but also compassionate. She is the main support of the autistic children of the Qu Claire School in St. Georges, Del., run by the Maziks. She was purchased for $20,000 at the Liberty Bell Sale by the Maziks who hoped to make the project self supporting and use race horses as a vehicle for teaching and entertaining their emotionally disturbed children.

The daughter of Most Happy Fella and Mary Ellen Hanover has realized the dream beyond the Mazik's wildest hopes. And as Ken Mazik says, "She might be a kinda nice mare to have on a breeding farm."

Very nice, indeed.

Brett Is In an Enviably Spot

By UPI

George Brett, the Kansas City Royals' star third baseman, has an easy explanation for his impressive .351 batting average and outstanding all-around batting statistics.

"You must remember," Brett said Sunday after leading the Royals to an 8-4 victory that extended the Baltimore Orioles' losing streak to nine games, "that I hit between Amos Otis and John Mayberry. The pitchers can't afford to walk me. They have to throw me strikes."

Brett homered, tripled and doubled and drove in three runs to lead Kansas City's 11-hit attack and Dennis Leonard pitched a nine-hitter, with nine strikeouts, for his sixth win as the Royals maintained their three-game lead in the American League's Western Division.

Brett hit a two-run triple in the first inning, his third homer of the season in the third inning and doubled and scored on a double by Jim Wohlford in the fifth inning. Mike Flanagan was ripped for five runs in 2 1-3 innings and suffered the loss for the Orioles — now in fifth place, eight games out of first place.

Indians 8-9, White Sox 5-7

Homers by Rico Carty and Frank Duffy paced an 11-hit Cleveland attack which enabled Pat Dobson to win his seventh game in the opener at Cleveland. Carty came back in the second game to deliver a pinch-hit, bases-loaded double and

George Brett

Larvell Blanks hit a two-run triple in a six-run eighth inning rally. Reliever Jim Kern won his sixth game in the nightcap. Bart Johnson and Clay Carroll were the losers for the White Sox.

Angels 10, Tigers 7

Orlando Alvarez and Ron Jackson each hit a homer and a double to lead the Angels' 12-hit attack, which brought Don Kirkwood his second victory. Four other Angels also hit doubles, including Tommy Davis who knocked in two runs in the seventh inning. Dave Roberts was the loser.

Rangers 7, Yankees 1

Mike Hargrove hit a three-run homer and Jim Umbarger pitched a five-hitter for his seventh win for the Rangers, who dealt the Yankees' Jim Hunter his sixth setback against seven victories. Umbarger walked three and struck out three enroute to his sixth complete game. Hunter gave up seven earned runs in a game for only the third time in his career.

Red Sox 10, Twins 2

Steve Dillard, Denny Doyle, Jim Rice and Carlton Fisk each singled home a run in a seven-run, third inning for the Red Sox. Rick Jones, making his first major league start, went the distance although touched for nine hits. Jim Hughes lost his seventh game against two wins for the Twins.

Brewers 5, A's 4

Jim Slaton allowed five hits in 8 1-3 innings and won his eighth game for the Brewers with the ninth-inning relief of Bill Castro. Slaton, Luis Tiant and Frank Tanana are tied for the AL lead in victories. Sixto Lezcano had three hits for the Brewers.

In the Southern Division, the New Windsor Rockets have the lead with a 5-1 slate followed by the Newburgh Atoms at 3-1, the Newburgh Nuclears at 0-0, the Pine Bush Stars at 1-4, the Monroe Woodbury Crusaders at 0-2.

In the Braves' first two outings, Tom Whitaker, Bob Marz and Rich Koegel have led the Kingston hitters. Marz has pitched one win, a shutout, and Kevin Coughlin has the other mound decision.

Can Adriano Win at Wimbledon?

Panatta Is Pessimistic

PARIS (UPI) — Adriano Panatta of Italy, who followed up his victory in the Italian Open by winning the French Open Sunday, says he is pessimistic about making it three in a row at Wimbledon next week.

Panatta won the French Open by downing Harold Solomon, 6-1, 6-4, 4-6, 7-6, in the oven-like red clay confines of Roland Garros stadium on the outskirts of Paris. The temperature on the court was 124 degrees.

"I think it's going to be very difficult to win Wimbledon because I'm very tired and I need a lot of practice on grass," Panatta said. "But at the beginning of the year that was the tournament I really wanted to win."

The All-England tournament at Wimbledon starts June 21 and runs through July 3.

Panatta, 25, picked up $27,660 on his way to stopping the bid by Solomon, 23, to become the first American in 21 years to win the French Open. Tony Trabert last pulled it off in 1955.

Solomon won $13,830 but seemed to find that small consolation. He said Panatta had a "ridiculously unfair advantage" because Solomon had had to go five sets in even hotter temperatures the previous day — it was 126 degrees in the Roland Garros center court casserole — to beat Mexico's Raul Ramirez in the semi-final, while Panatta had a three-set breeze in beating Solomon's doubles partner, Eddie Dibbs.

In the women's singles final, top-seeded Sue Barker of Great Britain defeated Renata Tomanova of Czechoslovakia, 6-2, 0-6, 6-2. Miss Barker won $6,380.

In winning the men's singles Panatta pitted the grace of a panther against Solomon's bulldog tenacity. Solomon dropped the first two sets, but came charging back to take the third.

Solomon, playing a stubborn baseline game to Panatta's classic all-court strategy, dropped behind in the fourth set and Panatta, leading 5-2, appeared to have the match sewed up.

But Solomon hit 12 consecutive winners, going from 2-5 behind to 6-5 ahead. Panatta recalled afterward, "I thought I was seeing the victory I had in my hands slipping away. He is always dangerous. He was always coming back."

Adriano Panatta

But trailing 5-6 and 30-30, Panatta hit the best two shots of the afternoon, a forehand cross-court passing shot and a second passing shot with his back to the net.

That set up the tie break, a challenge which Panatta had victoriously met on nine of the 10 previous occasions. He went ahead six points to two and that gave him four match points. He needed only two of them to win it.

Panatta hit long on the first match point, but on the second Solomon volleyed and hit the net cord. The ball bounced back on his own side of the court and it was all over.

Jones Puts Two Teams in Race

By UPI

Randy Jones pitched two teams into the National League pennant race Sunday. Jones, who's setting the National League ablaze in a fierce determination to earn the NL Cy Young award that eluded him last year, earned his 12th victory Sunday with a six-hit, first game 5-0 decision over one of his favorite opponents, the Philadelphia Phillies.

Combined with another standout performance by Butch Metzger, who picked up his seventh save with 2 1-3 innings of one-hit scoreless relief in the Padres' 4-3 second-game victory, the Padres halted a three-game losing streak with a doubleheader sweep of the Phils. This put the Padres, the NL West's traditional doormat, only five games behind the division-leading Cincinnati Reds.

The Phils' double loss also did the Pittsburgh Pirates a big favor. The Pirates completed a three-game sweep of the Atlanta Braves with a 6-5 victory and picked up 1 1/2 games on Philadelphia to within seven games of the Phillies in the NL East race.

Two of Jones' three shutouts this season have come against the Phils, the only times Philadelphia has failed to score all season.

No one in the major leagues is within three victories of the San Diego left-hander, who had a 20-12 record and leagueleading 2.24 earned run average in 1975. This year he's a phenomenal 12-2 and his ERA is again impressive, 2.10.

Elsewhere Sunday, in addition to Pittsburgh's victory, New York captured a doubleheader from San Francisco, 4-2 and 4-1, St. Louis split two games with Cincinnati, losing 4-0 then winning 12-9, Chicago beat Houston 8-3 and Los Angeles downed Montreal 6-3.

Pirates 6 Braves 5

Dave Parker's two-out, two-run triple off reliever Max Leon climaxed a three-run, ninth-inning rally. Leon replaced starter Phil Niekro after Manny Sanguillen singled and got two outs before surrendering singles to Richie Hebner and Al Oliver and then Parker's hit.

Mets 4-4, Giants 2-1

Tom Seaver pitched a five-hitter for 8 2-3 innings, getting last-out relief help from Skip Lockwood in the second game. Seaver, now 6-5, retired the first 16 batters before Dave Rader's single. Jerry Grote doubled in one run, Del Unser doubled in two and Wayne Garrett singled home the fourth run. In the first game John Milner's line-drive single scored two unearned runs and Grote later homered.

Cards 0-12, Reds 4-9

Don Kessinger and Lou Brock each hit their first home runs of the season and Mike Tyson added two triples and a double to account for eight rbi in the high-scoring second game to give St. Louis a split of the doubleheader. Bob Bailey hit a two-run homer and Fred Norman and Will McEnaney teamed up on an eight-hitter in Cincinnati's first-game shutout.

Cubs 8 Astros 3

Manny Trillo doubled home three runs to break a 2-2 tie and give Chicago its fourth straight win. Ray Burris picked up his third win against eight losses, and Paul Reuschel finished up for his second save.

Dodgers 6 Astros 3

Ron Cey cracked a two-run homer to back up Tommy John's first complete game in two years, completing Los Angeles' three-game sweep over Montreal. Left-hander John, continuing his comeback after missing all of last season following elbow surgery, went the distance for the first time since June 4, 1974 to improve his record to 3-4 and aided his own cause with a run-scoring double.

Holtzman Won't Go to Royals

NEW YORK (UPI) — Money talks, but apparently it didn't say enough to pitcher Ken Holtzman to make him a Kansas City Royal.

When Holtzman turned down an offer Sunday of an estimated $450,000 for three years from the Royals, a Saturday deal that sent the left-hander from the Baltimore Orioles to Kansas City was cancelled.

"I was notified on Saturday evening by the Baltimore Orioles that a tentative trade had been made involving me with the Kansas City club," said Holtzman, who had not signed a contract with the Orioles after being obtained as an unsigned player from the Oakland A's. "The deal was conditional upon my signing a contract with the Kansas City Royals. I immediately called my representative, Jerry Kapstein, and instructed him to begin immediate negotiations with the Kansas City club."

Reached at his Springfield, Va., home, Kapstein said, "I negotiated all day Sunday with (general manager) Joe Burke of Kansas City Royals and we reached agreement on financial terms, but there were several other issues we could not agree upon, so finally it was decided that we could not come to a complete agreement."

"We came as close to reaching an agreement as humanly possible, but when we reached the final point of decisions, there were still a few issues unresolved," Kapstein and Holtzman declined to reveal the "issues unresolved."

Kansas City manager Whitey Herzog said, "I just talked with Joe Burke and he had talked to Jerry Kapstein. I can't believe what's just happened. They just gave us some demands."

"I guess things are through for right now, but if I was Ken Holtzman I'd call us right back tomorrow because I can't believe anybody else made the offers we did. It just surprises me."

After the collapse of the negotiations, Burke said, "There are certain things you just cannot do. You reach a point in this business and it's about as far as you can go. I tried to make the trade, but he wanted some things that, on this club, we're not involved in."

"I'm not at the point where I'm begging players to play for the Kansas City Royals. I'm going to try to make some trades to help this club but we're not really having a lot of problems right now."

The 30-year-old Holtzman was traded to Baltimore April 2 along with Reggie Jackson. Holtzman took the standard 20 per cent salary cut when he declined to sign a contract with the Orioles. Jackson also declined to sign a contract with the Orioles, but received a raise anyway, which incensed Holtzman.

Holtzman has compiled a 5-4 record with a 2.13 earned run average this season. He is 79-73 lifetime.

Giants, Braves Deal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco and Atlanta, both trying to fight out of season-long slumps, pulled a major deal Sunday night when the Giants sent first baseman Willie Montanez, infielder Craig Robinson and two minor leaguers to the Braves for infielders Darrell Evans and Marty Perez.

Montanez was hitting .309, but had hit only two homers with 20 RBIs. He had said he did not like to play in windy Candlestick Park and asked to be traded. In addition, he had not signed a 1976 contract and was playing out his option. Robinson, who ironically was obtained from Atlanta in the deal that sent Ed Goodson to the Braves, was hitting .308 in a parttime infield role.

Evans, a longball hitter who belted 22 homers last season, was hitting well under .200 for the Braves this season with only one homer and 10 RBIs through last Friday's games.

Perez, moved out of the starting second base job by Lee Lacey, had played little for the Braves in 1976 after hitting .275 in 1975.

San Francisco also sent Phoenix infielder Mike Eiden and another player to be named later to the Braves.

Perez is expected to take over at second base for the Giants, since Derrel Thomas has aroused the ire of both the front office and fans alike with his unsteady play this season.

Asked if the Giants plan to trade Thomas, a spokesman said "just say we hope to make another deal before Tuesday night's trading deadline."

Sutton on Block

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Unhappy Dodger Don Sutton, who wants to be traded to the American League where he thinks he'll have a better chance to have his first 20-game season, is officially on the auction block but the trading deadline is Tuesday.

"The deadline is working against us," Dodger President Peter O'Malley said during the weekend. "So is Don's desire to go to a winner. So is our own philosophy against trading for an unsigned player who won't agree to terms with us."

"A Sutton trade before Tuesday is doubtful. There is more likelihood that we will sound out Don's feelings against next winter. If it's still his desire to be traded next winter, we will again try to accommodate him and we will have more time to work on it."

Sutton, a 10-year veteran who twice has been a 19-game winner for the Dodgers, outwardly began to show his unhappiness June 1 when he threw a temper tantrum after his third loss in a row. He failed to show up at Dodger Stadium the next night because of "personal problems" and revealed last Sunday that "a lot of things were eating at me."

After a win in Friday's win over Montreal, however, Sutton's calm returned and he said he thought the club was taking him seriously and would respect his wishes.

Braves Try It Again Tonight

KINGSTON — First place in the Hudson Valley Rookie League Northern Division will be at stake tonight at Dietz Stadium when the Kingston Braves meet the Wappingers Falls Ions in the Braves' scheduled home opener.

Game time is 8 p.m.

The clash is between the HVRL's only undefeated teams. The Braves have just two games under their belts, both successes against the winless New Paltz Falcons, while the Ions have been the surprise squad of the early going with five straight victories.

Over the weekend the Ions boosted their record with a 12-5 decision over Monroe Woodbury and a 3-1 win over the Marlboro Jets.

In the rest of the Northern Division, the defending champion Poughkeepsie Lasers are in third with a 2-1 mark, the Jets are next at 1-6 and the New Paltz Falcons are at 0-4.

O.J. Will Be Dealt

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "If anyone is interested in the greatest ball carrier, the greatest drawing card and the superstar of rent-a-car, I can be reached at One Bills Drive, Orchard Park, N.Y."

Ralph C. Wilson, owner of the Buffalo Bills, after receiving the biggest bombshell in the 16-year history of his club, was reluctantly putting O.J. Simpson up for sale.

Simpson told Wilson during a four-hour meeting here, at which time the owner offered to make O.J. football's richest player with a $1 million, two-year contract, that:

— He would not return to Buffalo next season because it had created a strain on his marriage — his wife, son and daughter live in West Los Angeles.

— He wanted to be traded to a West Coast team, preferably the Rams, or else Oakland or San Francisco—or he would retire.

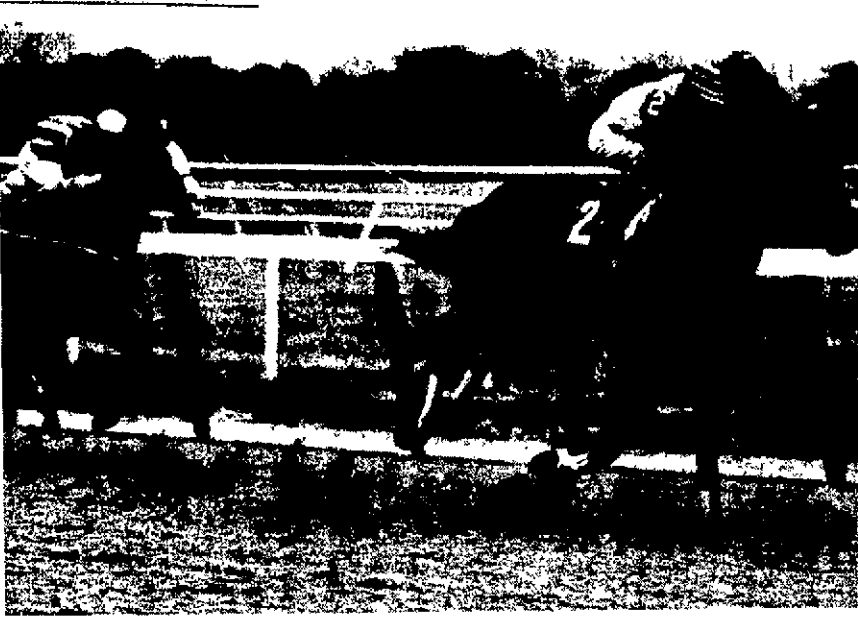

— He would only play football for one more season, in any event, before becoming a full-time actor. Simpson, who has had parts in three movies, was to get his first starring role later this year in "Goldie and the Boxer."

"What forced me to make the decision was my family," Simpson, a former Heisman trophy winner from University of Southern California, said in an interview. "I couldn't bear being away from them another five months."

Simpson, who gained a single-season rushing record of 2,003 yards in 1973, said he had two rounds of talks with Wilson, whom he considered a good friend.

"He understands the situation," Simpson said. "I asked him if he would trade me to a West Coast team and he was saddened by it and said we've had seven good years together and he appreciated what I had done for the team."

It had been reported that a specific deal was underway between the Rams and and Bills, which will send Simpson to Los Angeles in exchange for running back Lawrence McCutcheon, two top-flight defensive players and cash. The report was denied by both Simpson and Carol Rosenbloom, owner of the Rams. "No one associated with the Rams, including myself, has talked with Wilson or anyone from the Buffalo Bills about O.J. Simpson nor have we talked with Simpson," Rosenbloom said.

Ferrari Streak Ends

ANDERSTORP, Sweden (UPI) — The revolutionary six-wheeled Ford Tyrrel driven by Jody Scheckter of South Africa has broken Ferrari's stranglehold on the Formula One Grand Prix circuit after nine straight victories by the Italian manufacturers.

Scheckter, 26, won the Swedish Grand Prix Sunday, so far ahead of his closest competitor, teammate Patrick Depailler of France, the Tyrrel pits told both to "stay"—meaning not to push their cars needlessly and risk a breakdown—for the one-two victory.

Reigning world champion Niki Lauda of Austria in a Ferrari had no hope in catching the pair and complained after the race that his Italian machine did not handle properly on the flat and rather boring Anderstorp track.

Scheckter covered the 2.5-mile, 72-lap course in 1:46.5 hours for an average speed of 101.4 m.p.h., followed by Depailler with a speed of 101.1 m.p.h. and Lauda with 100.9 m.p.h.

Lauda, victorious in the last three Grand Prix this year and considered one of the three world's best drivers, tried as hard as he could but lost rather than gained on Scheckter's and Depailler's blue six-wheelers. It was the first victory for Tyrrel but Scheckter was hesitant to give all the credit to the two extra wheels.

"The six-wheeled car is too young and it is too early to tell," he said.

Before the race Scheckter said he preferred to drive a four-wheeled car, "but as long as this one wins I like it."

Asked about his chances to catch Lauda, who is 32 points ahead of him in the drivers' standings, Scheckter said, "it is going to be hard to catch him but there is always a chance he will break his leg tomorrow."

Scheckter is currently second with 23 points after the Swedish victory.

Despite Scheckter's victory, the 27-year-old Lauda will remain a hard champion to catch in the eight races to go for the world driving title. The Ferrari team won nine straight Grand Prix before losing in Sweden and Lauda took the top spot five times in this years previous six races. The other victory was by Lauda's teammate, Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland.

Jacques Laffite of France in a Ligier-Matra was fourth while Britain's top driver, James Hunt, was fifth in his McLaren. Regazzoni, 59 seconds behind Scheckter, was sixth in his Ferrari.

Early leader was Mario Andretti of the United States, who pushed his JPS Lotus to the limit from the start, only to find out in the 28th lap that he had been penalized one minute for jumping the gun at the start. Andretti, from Nazareth, Pa., continued to drive hard and managed to work his way up—timewise—from 10th to sixth position before blowing his engine and retiring.

Chris Amon of New Zealand held third place in his Ensign until he crashed by the grandstand in the 39th lap. Amon suffered minor injuries to his leg and limped away from his car.

It's Ickx and Van Lennep at LeMans

LE MANS, France (UPI) — Jacky Ickx of Belgium and Gys Van Lennep of the Netherlands Sunday shrugged off a scorching sun and burned shoes to drive their Porsche 936 Turbo to victory in the 44th running of the agonizing Le Mans 24-hour road race.

More than 100,000 spectators, some of whom had been camping for several days around the twisting 8.5 mile track, packed the stands to watch 55 cars take up the challenge of 24 consecutive hours of grueling test for drivers and mechanics.

The Ickx-Van Lennep team put on an exemplary display of strength and stamina. The glaring sun and the heat-giving Turbo charger made their car a virtual oven. The gas pedal was so hot that early in the race it burned right through Ickx' asbestos-lined shoes and a nasty blister formed across the ball of his foot.

"It was truly a heat I've never known," said the 31-year-old Belgian driver who drove to his third Le Mans victory. "All the metal parts seemed like they were burning."

Inman Credits His New Poise

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI)

— Joe Inman faltered slightly in the closing holes of the Kemper Open, but said his new poise on the golf course was the key to his first victory since joining the tour three years ago.

"I'm not a big hitter and I have to work harder to get what I get," said Inman, a 28-year-old resident of nearby Clover, S.C. "Today I went out there and I wanted to get it. That's all there is to it."

"I've learned an awful lot about how to think and how to keep my composure," said Inman, who had won only $10,988 before picking up the $50,000 top prize Sunday.

He finished at 11-under-par 277 after a final round 71 and was one stroke ahead of two-time Kemper winner Tom Weiskopf and Grier Jones.

"You accomplish things in this world by learning how to think," said Inman, whose best finish this year coming into the Kemper was a tie for 15th.

Inman put a shot from a fairway bunker on the 14th hole to within three feet of the hole and sank a birdie putt for a two-stroke lead.

But he ran into trouble on No. 16 when his second shot went about 60 feet to the right of the hole and well off the green. He put his third shot on the fringe, and two-putted for a bogey.

"I was scared to death," he said. "When I got over there the tie was awful. I was just tickled to death to get five. I was happier than a pig in slop."

He had little trouble on the 17th and 18th holes, parring both. He and Weiskopf each had birdie putts from about 25 feet on the closing hole and Weiskopf had a chance to send the tournament into a playoff after Inman's putt went two feet wide. But Weiskopf missed by inches.

"We both played the last hole very well," said Weiskopf. "I thought I had a chance at it. This is good for the game of golf when someone different wins."

Jones, the third-round leader, had a one-over-par 73 Sunday while Weiskopf had a two-under 70.

Lou Graham, who will defend his U.S. Open title in Atlanta this week, led a group at eight-under which included Charles Coody (71), Roger Maltbie (70), and J.C. Sneed (71). Graham had a 71.

Mark Hayes started the final round in third-place at nine-under-par, but slipped to a 74 Sunday and finished at seven-under in a tie for eighth with Terry Diehl (70), Bob Murphy (72), and Bob Wynn (70).

Playoff Win for Donna

SCARBOROUGH, Ont. (UPI) — Donna Caponi Young was shouting over the long distance wires to her husband in Los Angeles. "Hello, Ken," she said, before taking a long pause. "Oh, shoot, you've heard, I really wanted to tell you myself."

The urgent news Young had was that she had just won a playoff over Judy Rankin for the $12,000 first prize in the $60,000 Peter Jackson Women's Golf Classic, her first LPGA tour title in more than a year.

Young started the final round Sunday at one over par, three strokes off the pace set by Rankin, defending champion JoAnne Carner and Jane Blalock. Young figured she would need a 69 or better to win the tournament.

"I did just what I wanted," she said after firing a tournament low 67 on the par-72, 6,095-yard Cedar Brae Golf Club course.

While Carner soared to a 76 and Blalock to a 75, Young picked up birdie after birdie, getting seven in all, including a crucial five-footer at the final hole to put her in the clubhouse at four-under-par 212 after 54 holes.

But Rankin, the leading money winner on the LPGA tour this year, stayed right in the tournament, going on a birdie spree of her own—three in five holes in the back nine—before taking a costly bogey on the par-4, 360-yard 17th.

Young, standing near the 18th green, watched

Rankin try to lift herself out of the tie with a 20-foot birdie putt on the final hole. But the putt slid by, giving Rankin a round of 70 and sending back to the 16th for the sudden death playoff with Young.

Both players avoided trouble on their first two shots on the par-5, 475-yard first extra hole, each putting their third shots within about 30 feet of the cup.

Rankin putted first, but knocked it about five feet past the hole. Young's putt stopped about three feet off line. Rankin missed and Young curled her ball into the cup for the victory.

"I pulled it so bad, but it just caught the cup and went in," she said.

For Young, a 31-year old tour veteran, the win was her eighth in her 11-year career, but the first in the current season on the LPGA tour. It pushed her official earnings this year to $25,105, leaving her well behind Rankin's record-setting pace.

Second money of $6,500 pushed Rankin to $79,275, very close to Carner's 1974 record of $87,094 and within striking distance of becoming the first women golfer ever to make $100,000.

Murle Breer, the first-round leader, shot a 70 for a 54-hole total of 214 and third place money of $4,500, while Carol Mann and Susie McAllister tied for fourth, worth $2,835 each, at 215.

Cowboys Score Upset

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — Oklahoma State took the NCAA golf title away from two-time defending champion Wake Forest with some seasoned underclassmen who will be back next year but the Cowboys' coach isn't making any predictions. "We don't have a senior on our squad," said Mike Holder. "But then, neither did Wake Forest last year. You still have to go out and tee the ball up and hit it. So we aren't a shooin' for next year."

Oklahoma State, which was the 1975 runnerup to the Deacons, finished the 72-hole, four-day tournament seven strokes ahead of Brigham Young in second place. The Deacons carded a total of 1,166.

A single stroke separated each of the next three places, with Houston in third, Wake Forest fourth and New Mexico, which hosted the tournament, in fifth place.

Tears at Auction

Miss Antoinette Giancana, eldest daughter of slain hoodlum leader Sam (Momo) Giancana, is near tears as an assistant auctioneer holds up a pair of dinner plates, part of a set sold during auction of the Giancana estate Sunday. An unusually large crowd turned out for the auction at the Chicago Art Galleries. The dinner set sold for $2,100. Giancana was fatally shot at his suburban Oak Park home last year.

Lebanon's Traditional War Flares Anew

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrians and Palestinians ignored a Libyan-arranged ceasefire and clashed in south Lebanon for a second day today. In Beirut, the "traditional war" between Moslems and Christians flared anew with heavy shelling in at least two sectors.

A one-day lull in the fighting between the Syrian army and Palestinian-leftist alliance dissolved into sporadic fighting Sunday in the southeastern Arkoub region and the central mountains as the Syrians apparently moved in to consolidate their control over east Lebanon.

The fighting broke out only one day after Damascus radio announced a Libyan-arranged ceasefire between Syria and the left-wingers and Palestinians.

The truce appeared effective today only around Beirut airport, where officers from the nearby Libyan and Algerian embassies acted as observers.

Left-wing leaders charged Damascus was "stalling and procrastinating" on the truce in order to wipe out vulnerable Palestinian-leftist positions and seize more territory before fighting stops.

The 14-month civil war between Lebanese Moslems and Christians — dubbed the "traditional war" by local newspapers — erupted again early today with heavy shells slamming into shops and houses in southern and western Beirut.

Artillery and rocket exchanges over the previous 24 hours killed at least 70 and wounded 106.

Palestinian, left-wing and right-wing reports said Syrian columns struck in two directions from bases in the eastern Bekaa valley — west toward leftist outposts in the rugged mountains and southeast into the Palestinians' Arkoub heartland.

A Syrian armored brigade of about 40 tanks and armored vehicles supported by infantry and artillery units overran two Palestinian bases on the western slopes of Mount Hermon and cut the "Arafat trail" supply route in the Arkoub, the reports said.

The trail, named after Palestinian Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat, was the Palestinians' main supply line from Syria to their bases for commando attacks on Israel and a major left-wing lifeline even after the Syrian army entered Lebanon May 31.

The Syrians clashed "several times" with guerrilla units and battled left-wing and Palestinian forces around the besieged rebel Lebanese Arab army garrison at Rachaya, 38 miles southeast of Beirut in the eastern Bekaa, reports said.

One unconfirmed leftist report said "the Syrian attack (on Rachaya) was firmly repelled."

The radio station held by the Lebanese Arab army said jet fighters "believed to be Syrian" strafed left-wing and Palestinian lines near the ski-resort of Faraya, but the report could not be confirmed.

Syrian tank and infantry columns advanced on left-wing and Palestinian positions around Antourah, on Mount Lebanon 19 miles northeast of Beirut, cutting leftist supply lines on two roads, the reports said.

Left-wing radio broadcasts said the Syrians shelled their outposts and charged that Lebanese Christians in the region mounted an attack on leftist positions farther north, supporting the Syrian moves.

Mercenary Says CIA Paid Bills

LUANDA, Angola (UPI) — A Vietnam War veteran seeking to save himself from a firing squad accused the CIA today of financing and providing weapons for the American mercenaries who fought in Angola.

"They paid us in new $100 bills," said Gustavo Grillo, an Argentine-born naturalized American. "It was logical that it came from the CIA. We also had American military equipment."

Under lengthy cross examination by the tribunal, Grillo said he also believed there were CIA agents inside northern Angola "to see how their money was spent and see what was happening."

The husky ex-Marine, who became a platoon sergeant in Vietnam in 1968, said he joined the mercenaries solely for the money and adventure and blamed the American "rat race" for wealth for luring him into the situation.

He told the court he was a naturalized American, but now considers himself an Argentine because he is opposed to the American political and social systems.

"American society, which I am a product of, is a monster," he said. "It consists of power seekers, money seekers and waste makers. The weak get weaker and the strong get stronger."

Grillo appeared in the court in a tan prison jump suit with his right leg in a cast from wounds.

He said he worked as the bodyguard and driver for a bookmaker in Jersey City, N.J., before coming to Angola last February. He was wounded and captured four days after he arrived.

Grillo, two other Americans and 10 Britons being tried in the revolutionary tribunal all face a maximum sentence of death by firing squad.

One of the Britons, "Col. Tony Callan," who has been accused of ordering the execution of 14 British mercenaries before being captured, appeared in the dock handcuffed.

Grillo called Callan a "madman" and said that he heard he had killed Angolan civilians.

Grillo was to be followed on the stand by Daniel F. Gearhart, of Kensington, Md., also a Vietnam veteran.

Robert Ceaser Jr., an Ohio attorney defending Gearhart, said last week he would base his defense on the fact his client had been in northern Angola only a few days and not fired a shot before his capture.

Grillo is being defended by an Argentinean lawyer.

The 17-page indictment against the 13 defendants — 10 Britons in addition to the two Americans and Grillo — lists 139 counts of murder, destruction and other "war crimes."

Massive Purges Ordered in Kenya

ByUPI

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Uganda's President Idi Amin, retaliating for a grenade attack against his life, has ordered massive purges that already may have killed as many as 2,000 persons, according to travelers' reports.

Travelers crossing Uganda's border with Kenya said Sunday Amin had set up roadblocks throughout the country after the Thursday night assassination attempt. They reported the nation was in a state of panic.

Amin, in a personal statement broadcast over Uganda Radio Sunday, said one of three grenades thrown at him hit him full in the face, bounced away and exploded, bursting the tires of his automobile and badly injuring his chauffeur.

He shrugged off the close call.

"All leaders have enemies," he said. "No one can live for 200 years. He will die when God wills."

Amin's driver apparently died after the Ugandan leader drove him to a hospital, lurching along on the wheels of his damaged automobile.

The travelers said up to 2,000 persons may have died in purges ordered by Amin since the attack. Several suspected plotters, possibly including an unidentified cabinet minister, were believed undergoing interrogation in Kampala's Makinde Prison.

The travelers' reports were sketchy, but knowledgeable Uganda watchers said Amin almost certainly launched some type of cleanup operation in a country where up to 250,000 persons have been killed or disappeared since he came to power in 1971.

Uganda Radio dismissed a series of weekend explosions in Kampala as army training exercises.

The radio, which initially reported the attackers killed only one person, said Sunday "a few people, including some of the assassins, died on the spot."

Uganda Radio earlier described the grenades as "American and Israeli type" arms.

Official reports said Amin was unhurt, but some diplomatic reports said he received superficial shrapnel cuts on the arms and body.

Amin quoted some of his ministers as saying it was a "miracle" he survived. He has often said he is not afraid of death because he knows exactly how and when he will die.

Classes Resume At CUNY Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — The

City University of New York ended a financial nightmare today, and welcomed back students and faculty members locked out of its classrooms for 16 days by a budget deficit.

The 270,000 students returning to finish the spring semester are the last beneficiaries of CUNY's 129-year policy of virtually free tuition. In September, a newly enacted yearly charge of up to $900 will be imposed as one of the conditions for reopening the nation's third largest university.

After political haggling and several protest demonstrations aimed at winning state funds for the bankrupt school, Gov. Hugh Carey signed legislation Saturday advancing CUNY $24 million to pay its faculty members.

The Professional Staff Congress, the union representing 16,000 professors and clerical workers, ordered its members back to work after extracting promises from city officials and CUNY Chancellor Robert J. Kibbee that the paychecks due May 28—on which the university defaulted, closing a day later—would be paid, and that June paychecks would be issued on time.

PSC President Irwin H. Polishook, who threatened last month to cancel a recently ratified labor contract with the Board of Higher Education, said the pact will remain in effect.

The union and school officials also agreed that teachers will not suffer loss of pay, except the deferral of two weeks salary and eight months increments, agreed to in the labor contract as a means of saving CUNY about $16 million.

Kibbee said students or prospective students will be mailed the forms required to obtain tuition assistance for the school year beginning in September.

City Comptroller Harrison Goldin said Sunday the chancellor was responsible for CUNY's shutdown. He called for Kibbee's dismissal.

Goldin said Kibbee deliberately forced the closing by defying spending limitations set by the city's financial plan. Goldin said Kibbee's spending pattern forced a showdown between the city and the state at the expense of CUNY students and employees.

Answer to High Bills

HORN LAKE, Miss. (UPI) — Pat Hightower's answer to high electric bills is two 40-foot windmills in his yard and 16 storage batteries in his garage.

"I'd like to have the feeling that I don't have to rely on local power companies to provide comfort for my family," Hightower said.

So far, with an outlay of $800, he's cut his electric bills in half. He paid $25 in May while his neighbors' bills ranged from $50 to $150.

"The guy across the street wants to run an extension cord over here."

Hightower, AT&T employee in nearby Memphis, put an ad in the High Plains Journal of Dodge City, Kan., last December offering to buy wind-electric plants he says are increasingly inefficient for farm use.

"People hear what you're doing and they refer you to someone who has what you need," he said. "Everybody wants to help."

Topsy-Turvy Curves

It was a topsy-turvy day when British dancer-gymnast Julie Kirk sailed into Sydney, Australia. The 17-year-old fulfilled an ambition of a lifetime. Julie has yearned to visit Australia since she was a toddler and her opportunity came when she was offered a job as a dancer on a Russian cruise ship bound for a South Pacific tour. (UPI)

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CHANGES IN
TELEPHONE COMPANY SCHEDULES

Notice is hereby given that tariff revisions have been filed, effective July 1, 1976, providing for changes in the regulations concerning the liability of the Telephone Company for service interruptions. The tariff language and modified provisions as set forth in the proposed revisions are designed to reflect the Company's actual practices in its dealings with subscribers.

Liability of Telephone Company for Service Interruptions, Errors, etc.

Two proposed changes relating to subsequent service interruptions are as follows:

For any subsequent interruption during the same billing period, an allowance of 2/30 of the Tariff monthly rate for all services and facilities furnished by the Company under service or substantially impaired shall apply for each 24 hours or fraction thereof during which the interruption continues after notice to the Company by the subscriber, provided, however, that the subsequent service interruption was for a period of at least 24 hours.

If service is interrupted for a period of less than 24 hours, following notice by the subscriber to the Company, and there was a previous interruption of at least 24 hours, an allowance of 1/30 of the Tariff monthly rate for all services and facilities furnished by the Company rendered useless or substantially impaired shall apply for each day or more or less than 24 hours, provided, however, that the interruption was for a period of at least 24 hours.

The proposed revisions also provide that:

When all central office lines terminating in a key system or PBX system are interrupted, credit will be given for the equipment in the same manner as for the lines; however, when service is interrupted, no credit will be given for the equipment except on customer request and the amount of the credit will be negotiated by the Business Office.

The allowance for outage in supplemental equipment, when the central office lines are not affected shall be 1/30th of the tariff charge for each day the equipment is out of service; this credit shall be given for interruptions of less than 24 hours, however, only when requested by the customer.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CHANGES IN TELEPHONE RATE SCHEDULES

Notice is hereby given that the following tariff amendments providing for the introduction of the new KEY-416 Service have been filed with the Public Service Commission to be effective June 30, 1976.

DESCRIPTION OF SERVICE

The COM KEY 416 Service is a key telephone system with a capacity of 4 lines: 16 telephone instruments and 2 intercommunication paths. All instruments are multi-button telephones, in one ring, one-way tone, one-way tone, and are equipped to pick up all the lines terminating in the system. The lines appear in the same sequence at each station. Two types of telephone sets, Common Equipment Stations and Basic Stations, are available. Common Equipment Station also contains the control circuitry for the system features and for a maximum of 2 central office lines, one intercommunication path and 7 Basic Stations. The use of two Common Equipment Stations provides the ultimate system capacity.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CHANGES IN
TELEPHONE COMPANY SCHEDULES

Notice is hereby given that tariff revisions have been filed, effective July 1, 1976, providing for changes in the regulations concerning the liability of the Telephone Company for service interruptions. The tariff language and modified provisions as set forth in the proposed revisions are designed to reflect the Company's actual practices in its dealings with subscribers.

Liability of Telephone Company for Service Interruptions, Errors, etc.

Two proposed changes relating to subsequent service interruptions are as follows:

For any subsequent interruption during the same billing period, an allowance of 2/30 of the Tariff monthly rate for all services and facilities furnished by the Company under service or substantially impaired shall apply for each 24 hours or fraction thereof during which the interruption continues after notice to the Company by the subscriber, provided, however, that the subsequent service interruption was for a period of at least 24 hours.

If service is interrupted for a period of less than 24 hours, following notice by the subscriber to the Company, and there was a previous interruption of at least 24 hours, an allowance of 1/30 of the Tariff monthly rate for all services and facilities furnished by the Company rendered useless or substantially impaired shall apply for each day or more or less than 24 hours, provided, however, that the interruption was for a period of at least 24 hours.

The proposed revisions also provide that:

When all central office lines terminating in a key system or PBX system are interrupted, credit will be given for the equipment in the same manner as for the lines; however, when service is interrupted, no credit will be given for the equipment except on customer request and the amount of the credit will be negotiated by the Business Office.

The allowance for outage in supplemental equipment, when the central office lines are not affected shall be 1/30th of the tariff charge for each day the equipment is out of service; this credit shall be given for interruptions of less than 24 hours, however, only when requested by the customer.

Your Horoscope

By Jean Adams

Tuesday, June 15, 1976

Your birthday today: Along with more recent work, results from long-past labors continue to roll in for a prosperous year. Convert potential resources into ready cash, realign investments, sell obsolete possessions. Relationships retreat from obvious view, deepen into permanent ties or estrangements. Today's natives have an amazing mind for details in the midst of turbulent situations.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Once you agree with associates on use of resources, the going is effective. Fringe arguments hang on. An old mystery crops up.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Maintain the momentum of what is already decided and in motion. Family, in-laws entangle themselves in your affairs. Don't encourage them.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Yesterday's influence continues at somewhat reduced levels. Avoid unnecessary travel. Bright ideas are a bit early, need further development.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Proceed with things as they are. Hold the line on spending, make do with what you have. Get at the truth promptly and bickering won't mar family life.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Defend your enterprises against complaint. Associates are momentarily contrary. Give them plenty of margin to learn the facts for themselves. Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your efforts attract attention. Try to simplify questions under discussion. Leave sensitive emotional explanations rest for other times.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Bring your notebook; keep outline of activities current for filling in later. Sidestep emerging conflict over personal preferences, if that's possible.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Contingencies upset work plans favorably, as you can drop an obsolete habit. Someone close to you needs special care, says little or nothing about it.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): The soft sell has beneficial results. Legal maneuvers, overdone formalities, relatives all pose problems. Recover items you've lent to neighbors.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Re-examination of old records brings to light a useful bit of information. In pursuing obvious business opportunities, focus on standard routines.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Meditation helps you through a complex situation where you must be sure of how you speak on controversial subjects. Accept a role of reasonable leadership.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Go on with what you agreed to do. Meanwhile, there's time to alleviate past animosity, build firm enough relationships to avert future misjudgments.

Jean Adams TEEN FORUM

By Jean Adams, Ph.D.

I LOVE YOU : (Q.) My last boy friend always used to say, 'I love you' I thought he was waiting for me to say the same thing back. Well, I never said it. Now I have a new boy friend! After two weeks of dating him I told him I loved him! Well, he said, Oh, yes, sure. I really felt embarrassed!

Should I try saying it again or just wait until he says it? I really think he's scared of me. —Yes Or No in Pennsylvania. (A.) Say I love you only when you really mean it. Do not say it just because someone says it to you, or because you think it is expected, or because you think it would make someone feel better. Do not say it in an attempt to commit someone to you. Do not say it in an attempt to get someone to do something he does not want to do. You did not tell the first boy you loved him. I gather you didn't love him. But you told the second boy. Maybe you thought he expected it. But it is clear he didn't. If you really mean it, tell him again when you feel like it. If you don't mean it, don't say it.

LETTERS: (Q.) Cindy and I get along real good. She gave me some love letters that some boy has been writing to her. She said she doesn't like him, but hates to hurt his feelings, so she keeps all his letters.

I want to believe her but can't. What do you think about it? —Upset in Indiana (A.) If you don't believe Cindy, you and she are not getting along real well.

She made a mistake in giving you letters from another boy. They belong to her, not you. She should have kept them to herself! She is also making a mistake in not telling the other boy she is not interested in him — if that is the truth.

It seems to me that she is telling you the truth, even though not very wisely or convincingly. Tell her about your doubts.

Oswald: "Here is a hand to illustrate this. Playing at three notrump, South let East hold the first trick with the queen of spades. South put his king on East's ten and West won with his ace. West cashed his jack of spades and cleared the suit, but now South could lose the club finesse and still make his contract."

Barbs

People who brag of taking a middle-of-the-road position tend to forget they're setting themselves up for being hit from both directions.

If you can put two and two together and get five, you should be a natural as a cashier in a clip joint.

Injuries in Weekend Mishaps

ESOPUS — Two persons were injured in an accident on Route 213 in Esopus Saturday night according to the Ulster County Sheriff's Department.

Edward L. Smedman, 52, 45 Russell Road, Hurley, and his wife Gladys, 45, were injured when Smedman apparently lost control of his vehicle and Maspeth, and Dura Bandi, 28, 8830 85th St., Woodhaven. The three were taken before Justice Harry Bailey in Denning and charged with reckless endangerment in the second degree and possession of a weapon in the fourth degree. They were remanded to Ulster County jail. Vessic is being held on $600 bail and Bandi and Milinovic on $400 each.

Police Beat

Police said David A. McMahon, 17, Box 127, Rifton, was turning north onto Route 213 from a driveway and failed to observe a south-bound vehicle operated by Charles J. Koemm, 19, RFD 1, Box 339, Ulster Park. Koemm swerved to avoid the other vehicle, struck a utility pole, breaking it, and continued on to hit a tree, according to police.

Koemm and his passenger, Kenneth Tuchman, 17, of Woodstock were taken to Benedictine Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance. Koemm is reported in fair condition and Tuchman was treated and released.

Olive Crash

A one-car accident on Route 28 in the Town of Olive injured two persons, according to the Ulster County Sheriff's Department.

Gunfire
The Ulster County Sheriff's Department also reported the arrest of three aliens for allegedly firing a rifle at the YMCA camp in Denning early Sunday morning.

The incident was reported at 4 a.m. Sunday. At 6 a.m. Sheriff's Deputies Chris Johansen and Paul Cutrone arrested Rade Vessic, 40, 6915 60th St., Ridgewood, Michael Milinovic, 29, 6023 64th Place,

More on Sex Scandal

WASHINGTON(UPI) — Denials are pouring from congressmen accused in a growing sex scandal that includes tales of a houseboat sex party, a Utah lawmaker arrested for propositioning a decoy streetwalker and a hint of forced homosexuality.

Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, Sunday denied participating in a houseboat sex party with Elizabeth Ray, the former congressional secretary who first took the covers off the scandal and told of escapades with Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio.

Colleen Gardner, a 28-year-old blonde divorcee, said she watched Gravel's sexual adventures at a party on the Potomac during the early 1970s. Mrs. Gardner, a former secretary for Rep. John Young, D-Tex., said a major part of that job was going to bed with her boss.

Gravel labeled the charges "ridiculous" and said he was never on the boat. The houseboat was owned by Rep. Ken Gray, D-Ill., who supposedly was being entertained by Mrs. Gardner.

Mrs. Gardner said sex was the main reason she was able to draw an annual salary of $28,000 — more than double the average pay for women staffers at the Capitol. Miss Ray, who said her federal paycheck was for being a mistress, was paid $14,000 a year, also above the average of around $10,000.

Mrs. Gardner says some male workers also are subjected to pressures for sex.

Rep. Allan Howe, D-Utah, returned to Washington Sunday after being arrested in Salt Lake City Saturday night on charges of soliciting sex from two undercover policewomen posing as prostitutes.

Howe, 48-year-old father of five, said he was "innocent of any wrongdoing" and begged his "friends and all the good people of Utah to withhold their judgment."

Hays, the original congressional figure in the scandal, remained hospitalized in Barnesville, Ohio, after taking an overdose of sleeping pills. His physician said it was up to Hays to say whether the overdose was an accident.

Hays was listed in satisfactory condition. He was expected to stay in the hospital for at least another week and then spend seven to 10 days at home recuperating.
